To Whom It May Concern,

I am the owner of Rosemary Birthing Home license number 318. I am writing to inform the Agency for Health Care Administration that Rosemary Birthing Home will be closing. Final date of operation will be on or before May 12, 2019 with official closure at the end of that day. Please let this act as official notice.

Please contact me if anything further is required or with any questions.

Sincerely,

In addition, all clients currently in care will be informed of plans of closure. All care for those delivered before May 12, 2019 and anyone pregnant that would like to remain in care until that time will be provided the full scope of care they are accustomed to. Arrangements have been made to provide referrals to similar care providers in the local area for all those that choose to leave care before closure date or upon that date. A list of numerous local maternity care providers will be provided to all. Referrals will also be provided specifically to local birth centers in the vicinity that have agreed in support to make the transition as seamless as possible. All records for those currently in care and transferring to other providers will be either printed and given to client or with signed release, be promptly forwarded to provider of their choice. Records will be maintained in Maternity Neighborhood, the EMR they were created in, and will be accessible for retrieval initially by contacting office@rosemarybirthing.com and medicalrecords@rosemarybirthing.com or by calling Rosemary Birthing Home at 941-330-9966 and signing appropriate release. After closure is complete The Birth Center of St. Pete in St Petersburg Florida will maintain records and past clients will be able to request records by calling (727) 895-2300.
